Mr. Faria's advice to current Doyle students:

"High school may be fun, but it is the road that will lead you to your future. Enjoy your time, but put forth the effort while you are still here. Get involved in every aspect of school, find your interests, and then use that as the vehicle to pursue your life long dreams.

Stick with your plan. Life has a funny way of leading you in the right directions. Use your teachers as models and ask many questions. You may not get answers, but you might realize that we were once in the same position as you are now.
